Yondhurst - on the green and red routes - is the capital of the Forest and home to the New Forest Centre as well as lots of places to eat, shop and browse. If you’re coming by train, join the green or blue route at Brockenhurst. There are direct trains from Bournemouth, Southampton, London and the Midlands.

Green route heads to Lymington, where you’ll find yachts and fishing boats at the cobbled quay and a host of independent shops and eateries. It then takes in the historic village of Beaulieu. Stop off to visit Palace House, home to the Montagu family since 1538, and the ruins of Beaulieu Abbey.

The Tour also calls at the National Motor Museum home to the Bond In Motion collection of original James Bond vehicles. Then on to Exbury Gardens, a riot of colour in summer when the Sundial Garden and herbaceous borders are at their best.

Red route takes you to Burley, a traditional New Forest village full of character, once the haunt of smugglers and highwaymen. Then it’s on to the market town of Ringwood, where Ringwood brewery continues the centuries old tradition of crafting fine local ales. You can come face to face with birds of prey, snakes and lizards at Liberty’s Owl Raptor & Reptile Centre.

Next stop is the attractive town of Fordingbridge and then Sandy Balls, an eco-friendly resort where you can enjoy woodland walks and activities as well as an onsite pub and restaurant.

Blue route makes for the coast at Lymington, with its elegant Georgian buildings, interesting shops and cobbled quay.

Next comes the delightful harbour at Keyhaven, where you can take the ferry or the footpath out to Hurst Castle. Milford-on-Sea has great views across the Solent to the Needles and a choice of seafront cafés.

From there it’s an exhilarating ride by the sea, calling at Shorefield and Hoburne holiday parks. Before turning back into the Forest to Burley, famous for tales of witches and today for cider and fudge!

He New Forest, one of Britain’s newer National Parks, was set aside as a royal hunting area by William the Conqueror in 1079. It is a precious place of great natural beauty, and a unique way to explore it is on these open-top bus tours.

You get grandstand views as the bus takes you through the heart of this magnificent heath and forest landscape. You can hop on and off where you like and catch another bus later on, or switch between tours, all on the same ticket.

But of course, it’s the wide open landscape with vistas fading towards the horizon, the dense woodland with its ancient oaks and beeches, the wealth of flora and fauna, that is the indefatigable magic of the New Forest.

Tours run every day - dates are on the timetables on the other side - and if you’ve got a cycle with you, you can put it inside the bus, then set off on some fantastic cycle rides at various points. They’re all shown in the guide you’ll be given when you get on board, along with a wealth of information about places to hop off along the way and discounts at many attractions, shops and cafes.

There’s an informative commentary to add to your enjoyment, and you’ll see far more than you ever could in a car, and fewer cars in the Park has to be better for everyone.

Whichever tour you choose, it’s a great way to really experience the New Forest.
